Why Beijing?

Cultural Center

The city has over 3,000 years of construction history and has been the capital for 860 years. In the city, there are countless scenic spots and historical sites, featuring historic figures and cultural heritage.

Hi-Tech Center

Beijing ranks first among Chinese cities in the number of national high-tech enterprises, "little giants" and unicorn companies. Five major industrial clusters have taken shape, covering medicine and health, smart equipment, artificial intelligence, integrated circuits, and energy conservation and environmental protection, each with an annual output value of 100 billion yuan in 2023.

Financial Center

Nearly 50,000 foreign-invested enterprises from more than 165 countries/regions have been established in Beijing. Beijing has accommodated 35,000 foreign resident institutions, 217 regional headquarters of transnational companies and 49 Foreign-Invested R&D centers, and 54 headquarters of Fortune Global 500 companies.

Introduction

Central University of Finance and Economics (thereafter CUFE), founded in 1949, and honored as “cradle of experts in the field of finance and management sectors in China”, has cultivated over 180,000 high-quality talents at all levels for the national economic construction and social development.

CUFE began to enroll international students in the 1950s and has achieved remarkable success in international education with the renowned brand of "Study at CUFE" through 70 years of unremitting effort across generations.

CUFE actively employs outstanding talents worldwide, inviting a group of globally recognized scholars, including Nobel laureates in economics, to serve as academic committee members, honorary professors, visiting professors, and adjunct professors.

CUFE has led the establishment of the Sino-foreign Financial Education Alliance, set up the Global Financial Forum, and established cooperative relationships with more than 200 world-renowned universities, international organizations and multinational enterprises.

At present, CUFE offers programs in economics, management, law and other disciplines, forming a multi-level and multi-type training system for international students such as undergraduates, masters, doctors, pre-university students, general scholars, and Chinese language students, etc. with a unique model of “Chinese+Finance”.

CUFE is located in Beijing, the capital of China, with convenient transportation to downtown areas.

OSIPKINA ANASTASIIA, RUSSIA

Master's in Investment, Graduated in 2023

The academic journey at CUFE proved to be both intellectually stimulating and useful. I found the professors to be not only knowledgeable but also passionately dedicated to the teaching process, consistently demonstrating a willingness to address inquiries and cultivate a conducive learning atmosphere. The classes were thoughtfully organized and characterized by lucid explanations and engaging assignments. Having concluded my studies with high scores, I hold a strong conviction that the skills and knowledge I have acquired will make me in demand on a global scale.

HANRAHAN CIAN GREGORY, UNITED STATES

Master's in Regional Economics, Graduated in 2023

Up until now, I think CUFE is still a hidden gem among universities in China. International students at CUFE can benefit from smaller class sizes and school administrators who will actually remember your name. Professors at CUFE are conducting research at the top level and are eager to collaborate with students. CUFE is not an institution which feels detached from China. CUFE's professors have studied in some of the best universities in China and in the world, meaning that you will find professors who can help you deepen your understanding of both China and the world. Take the leap of faith to study in CUFE!

NIYONGABO CARMEL, BURUNDI

Bachelor's in International Trade and Economics, Graduated in 2023

CUFE's curriculum is renowned for its rigor, comprehensiveness, and innovation. Here, I have not only gained in-depth professional knowledge but also experienced a variety of interdisciplinary courses. The school encourages us to become independent and develop critical thinking skills, giving me greater academic depth and breadth. The professional courses provided by the school are closely connected with practical work, allowing me to increase practical experience based on academic theory and fully prepare for future employment.

ISHFAQ MUHAMMAD, PAKISTAN

PhD in Finance, Graduated in 2018

My time at the Central University of Finance and Economics (CUFE) was transformative. The rigorous education and global perspective I gained at CUFE prepared me for my current roles as the Director of the Centre of Research and Innovation in Maritime Affairs (CRIMA) and as the Head of the School of Commerce and Accountancy at Minhaj University Lahore, Pakistan. CUFE's values of academic excellence and innovation continue to guide my career and shape my leadership approach.
